Arab and Kurdish crime clans are “systematically recruiting” refugees and building parallel societies in Germany, an investigation has found.

“The clans have systematically been recruiting refugees for the dirtiest jobs, such as selling drugs in parks and the subway,” Thomas Spaniel, an organised crime specialist with Berlin’s police force, told the Washington Post.

Reporter Bojan Pancevski describes how thousands of Arabs and Kurds who arrived as asylum seekers from Lebanon and Turkey in the 1980s and, according to a report by the authorities, “stuck by tribal and Islamic codes of justice, spurning the state and its laws”, resulting in some large families turning into “criminal enterprises” operating according to “their own rules and hierarchies”.

Pancevski reports that Berlin's organised crime scene is dominated by around a dozen mostly Arab and Kurdish crime clans with comprising roughly a thousand individual criminals — but that the criminal ecosystem has been upset by more recent migration waves, with ugly consequences.

“Now it's like New York here: Chechens, Kurds, Albanians, Russians, Moroccans, Turks, Gypsies... Everyone wants their share,” one gangster told Pancevski at a funeral for Nidal Rabih, a notorious gang enforcer who was riddled with eight bullets in a public park in front of his wife and children.

More than 2,000 people attended the funeral, with the Washington Post reporter's interlocutor vowing that those responsible for the killing “will pay”.

The people of Germany are turning against their leadership as migration is rocking the already tenuous Berlin coalition. Crime in Germany is way up. Big mistake made all over Europe in allowing millions of people in who have so strongly and violently changed their culture!

The mainstream media outlet admits that migrants are vastly overrepresented in the crime statistics in general, with residents of Arab origin in the Berlin district of Neukölln, for example, accounting for more than 53 percent of serious repeat offenders aged between 13 and 21, despite being only around 10 percent of the area's general population.

The Post also admits that refugees and asylum seekers across the country appear to be punching above their weight in terms of criminality, accounting for 8.5 percent of criminal suspects in 2017; well above their 2 percent share of the general population.

Their overrepresentation in the figures for suspects in unlawful killing, assault, and robbery statistics is even more striking, at around 14 percent.

The figures appear to lend credence — perhaps unintentionally — to U.S. President Donald Trump's recent claim that migrants have “violently changed” Germany's culture.
