

Body camera video released from police who fired at Nashville school shooter; 3 kids, 3 adults dead

Surveillance video released Monday shows the suspect — identified as Audrey Hale — shooting through a locked door.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — The suspect in Monday's mass shooting at a small, private Christian school in Nashville, Tennessee, had legally purchased seven guns from five different local gun stores, and hid some of those weapons at home, police said Tuesday.

Three children and three adults were slain in the attack at The Covenant School. Nashville police on Tuesday released dramatic body camera footage from two officers who fired at the suspect, identified by police as 28-year-old Audrey Hale.

The video shows the officers entering the school, following the sound of the gunfire to the second floor and finding the suspect in a lobby area on the second floor.
