

Horrorifying Videos Show Incredible Destruction Of Raging California Wildfires

More than 44,000 acres have been consumed by the fires, the largest of which was just 10% contained on Sunday.

Terrifying videos taken in parts of California are offering a firsthand glimpse of the incredible destruction left by several wildfires as nearly 100,000 people have been forced to evacuate their homes.

As of Sunday morning, more than 44,000 acres continued to burn across the state. The largest of the eight fires, which is dubbed the Kincade Fire, has consumed 30,000 acres north of Santa Rosa and is just 10% contained, the state's Department of Forestry and Fire Protection reported.

The Saddle Ridge Fire, which has consumed 8,799 acres, is 97% contained, and the Tick Fire, which has consumed 4,615 acres, is 65% contained the department's website states. Both of those fires are in Los Angeles County.

Here are some of the dramatic videos recorded at the scene of two of the worst active blazes.

Kincade Fire: (see the source for multiple videos)

Justin Sullivan@sullyfoto

The #KincadeFire is burning on both sides of Geysers Road and has already consumed over 10,000 acres. Homes are starting to burn along Red Winery Road. @GettyImagesNews

Sam Brock@SamBrockNBC

Fire encroaching the highway on 128, both sides, in Sonoma Co. in Healdsburg. Major wind gusts kicking up and trees and power lines down everywhere. Updates to come #KincadeFire @NBCNews @TODAYshow

Sam Brock@SamBrockNBC

Embers flying and buildings burning at the @SodaRockWinery in Alexander Valley. A blazing scene that shows how wind gusts can turn a spot fire into a much larger issue. Flames burning on the other side of highway 128 as well. @NBCNightlyNews @NBCNews @TODAYshow

Bob Redell@BobNBC

Soda Rock Winery up in flames as the #KincadeFire burns through Healdsburg, with winds 90+ MPH. @nbcbayarea

craig philpott@CphilpottCraig

Replying to @CphilpottCraig

Meanwhile above ground things are difficult. #KincadeFire Fieldstone winery

Tick fire:

Globalnews.ca@globalnews

A doorbell camera shows a California family evacuating their home as massive Tick fire surrounded their neighbourhood in Canyon Country, scorching nearby hills and filling the sky with smoke.

ALSO SEE: <https://bit.ly/2NhqfAC>

SignalSCV@SCVSignal

Captured at the #TickFire by reporter @lunettacaleb. The video was taken in the Mint Canyon neighborhood of Canyon Country as residents were forced to evacuate.

LAist@LAist

A fire camera captured the outbreak of the #TickFire. This three-hour time lapse shows the period from 1:33pm to 4:32pm Thursday. (Courtesy of <http://www.alertwildfire.org>) https://laist.com/2019/10/24/tick_fire_breaks_out_near_agua_dulce.php ...

L.A. County Fire Department@LACoFDPIO

#TickFire @LACOFD Firefighters braving arduous conditions shoring up and reinforcing containment lines. Supported by fixed wing retardant dropping aircraft the difficult work separating burned fuel from unburned vegetation continues.

LACoFireAirOps@LACoFireAirOps

VIDEO: @LACoFireAirOps Firehawk helicopters fighting wildfire on three fronts. Working to protect lives and property earlier in Santa Clarita, CA. #TickFire @LACoFDPIO (media ok to use with credit)

Source:

https://www.huffpost.com/entry/california-wildfire-videos_n_5db5bbe8e4b05df62ec11277

[Disclaimer]