

‘Insane’: U.S. company reports Mexican military seized its property

‘This occupation must cease immediately’

Former Director of National Intelligence John Ratcliffe is challenging the Joe Biden administration to start doing its duty to protect the United States.

The challenge comes after the Mexican military apparently took over property belonging to an American construction company.

On social media, he said, “Getting pretty used to the Biden administration letting China and Russia kick sand in our faces (covid and fentanyl deaths, spy balloons, taking down U.S. MQ-9 Reaper) - but now Mexico, too? The Biden administration needs to engage immediately to defend a U.S. company....”

A report from Just the News explained Vulcan Materials reported “armed Mexican forces took over its marine terminal in southeast Mexico.
