

Magnitude 5.7 quake strikes southern Iran

(Reuters) - A magnitude 5.7 earthquake struck Fars province in southern Iran on Tuesday, the official IRNA news agency reported.

There was no immediate information about possible casualties or damage from the quake, which hit near the town of Beyram.

Reporting by Babak Dehghanpisheh; Editing by Leslie Adler

Our Standards: The Thomson Reuters Trust Principles.

Source:

<https://www.reuters.com/article/us-iran-quake/magnitude-5-7-quake-strikes-southern-iran-idUSKBN23G2TJ?rpc=401&>

[Disclaimer]