

Weekly Update by Mark Armstrong - 29 October 2021

Greetings from Tyler,

It looks like there's an effort to make the Corona virus a lifelong problem. Turns out that vaccinated people will need a booster shot, every year. We're pretty sure there are no financial considerations for anybody. They're just trying to "keep everybody safe."

It seems like only yesterday that medical privacy was popular, even with politicians. Maybe you've noticed, that's no longer the case. Those who make the "rules" (and then are caught breaking them) are now in charge of our bodies? Nonsense.

The slicked down Governor of California has MANDATED that no gas powered automobiles be sold in that state after 2035, and gas powered lawn mowers and weed-eaters are outlawed by 2024. Stupid people think they're "saving the planet." How obscene does it get? It doesn't matter that the glaciers are still frozen, or that there's enough ice in Antarctica to sink their whole theory. It doesn't matter that the top UN scientists at East Anglia University were caught doctoring the historical record and privately discussing how to conceal their slight of hand. How could they "hide the decline" in historical temperatures to make the contrived theory plausible? Please look it up.

Do you think a "scientist" hired at an astronomical salary to sell global warming is going to dispute the theory? Surely a scientist couldn't be corrupt.

Surely a doctor couldn't be corrupt! "You don't know what you're talking about!" Maybe we don't understand the depths to which noted professionals might sink to do the bidding of their benefactors. Look up some of the hi-jinks these oracles of medicine have involved themselves in, at our expense. It's not pretty.

Now they're going after the little children. There's no information available on the long-term effects. We'll never know unless we allow children to become test cases and monitor the results. That's how "science" works. Sure, some will not fare well, but the statistics are needed. Right Dr. Fauci? This is the guy that thought a “pandemic” was an acceptable risk. His own words bear that out. Better not disagree. Cancellation hangs over the head of everyone.

How is it that the high priests of population control are tinkering behind the scenes, and the most bombastic promoters of the “vaccine.” The media is not about to expose them, because the media has been absorbed in the movement. They’re there to make sure we know how stupid we are if we ignore their advice. If you’re brave enough to risk an evening on CNN, you’ll get a face full. And that goes double for the alphabet networks who are on board with the newspapers, the social media companies and the big corporations, many of which are dependent on good relations with the government.

Check this out, reported in the mainstream media because they are presumably on board with this nonsense. Yahoo! news reports that a training program for AT&T employees insists that “white people are the problem.” Here’s a paragraph to give you a glimpse. “AT&T Corporation is putting its employees through a racial reeducation program that teaches that ‘American racism is a uniquely white trait’ and tells white people that they are the problem...” The program, says the mainstream outlet, is “based on the core principles of critical race theory, including intersectionality, systemic racism, white privilege and white fragility. The program also promotes reparations, defunding the police and transgender activism...” That sounds about right. And the left claims a majority!

These are the truly enlightened doing this. They’ve got parallel goals, and they all have to do with either re-educating us or banning us from normal pursuits. Let’s see. Global Warming, white racism, hatred of law enforcement, reparations and transgender activism? We’re not sure what one has to do with the other, but those who believe in any one of these are expected to vouch for the entire list. Just to stay out of harm’s way.

Trying to keep up with current events is more than plenty to make you sigh and cry for the abominations accepted wholesale by polite society. The country that was founded on God-given rights and liberties has gone whole hog to wipe them out. They spout “science” as their authority. We’ve got news, science is merely the effort to understand what God has set in motion. The most educated of them realize that an Intellect that they cannot even understand created what they are trying to comprehend. But now they’re trying to tell us that they, Dr. Fauci types, represent supreme intelligence and therefore we must obey them at every turn.

Otherwise, you're a science denier.

Don't be depressed. If we live long enough we'll see these little twerps get their comeuppance. The pretender is meeting with you know who at the Vatican, missing the feather in his cap for having bankrupted the United States in perpetuity. They thought they'd ram through nearly $4 trillion in social clap-trap so he and the grand poo-bah of so-called "Christianity" would have something to celebrate. Hard to believe these guys are at the helm of the most powerful institutions on earth. We hope they're enjoying themselves, it won't last long.

Mark

Source: <http://www.intercontinentalcog.org/fridayupdates.php>

[Disclaimer]