

Weekly Update by Mark Armstrong - August 9, 2024

Greetings from Tyler,

The war of crowd-size is playing out. Trump gets huge crowds, without entertainers. Kamala crashes a rap concert and suddenly is the mainstream's darling. They never liked her much, until Joe Biden dropped out of the race. They couldn't keep his secret any longer. Can you imagine the anguish of close family members who are afraid their "get out of jail free" card has expired?

The commenters on the sites I frequent are sure the attempt on the former President's life was a set up. Too many things went wrong, all at once. You can read about it, but there are more questions than answers. Nothing has been proven, but it looks suspicious. No communication between local police and the Secret Service? Just an oversight. Couldn't even get a phone number.

Much is being made of Kamala's choice for a running mate. This guy is a good speaker, but he's got some problems. Claiming to have been in combat erroneously is a problem. Doing it several times in front of cameras is not a good idea if you never saw combat, and this guy didn't. You have to wonder if her team knew about this early on. All bets are off about the convention.

There are a lot of bad things going on around the world. Much of it is to do with the onslaught of the civilized world by the third world. We're enduring an unending onslaught here in the United States. If Donald Trump wins back the presidency, this will be one of the reasons. There's also inflation raging, because they're saving the planet. We've had a very mild Summer here in Texas, or at least our part of Texas.

They ruined the Olympics for us. And apologized. It's too late. These homos already offended God and everybody else. Oh, but it's France, and they've always been a little light in the loafers. Too bad. I've watched the swimmers at lunchtime, and some game that's like a cross between soccer and basketball. Whatever. The players don't even seem to know what's going on.

So they've canceled a Taylor Swift concert in Austria. Terrorism was planned.

Europe is now a target for these lame brains from the Middle East. Nothing has changed in all these years, except the third world has invaded everywhere. You think they leave their culture at home? Nope. They brought it with them, and we're supposed to be happy about it.

It's a dangerous time, and we don't know who's in charge. Surely not Joe Biden! I don't have to tell you there are wars and rumors of wars. Ukraine, the Middle East, and some indication that China may invade Taiwan, and there are factories there that provide the parts for our electronics. Why is that?

Kamala was a punchline, now the mainstream is falling all over themselves like she's the best thing since sliced bread. She's chosen her running mate, but how's that working out? Did her "team" know about the "stolen valor" stuff ahead of time, or are they finding out the same as us? Either way, it's not good.

People are in prison in England for things they said or wrote. How dare somebody offend some group or other, go to jail. That better not come to the U. S., or we're all in trouble.

Mark