

Weekly Update by Mark Armstrong - November 8, 2024

Greetings from Tyler,

We are a long suffering people. We've put up with nonsense we would have never thought of in decades past. The mind boggles as we try to make sense of the way things will change. I don't have to tell you that they've tried EVERYTHING. Lawfare, corrupt charges, residential raids, and shot at Trump on LIVE TV. What else? I think they tried everything they could think of. They had all three of the major news networks on their side as well as every late night comedian and daytime TV talk show. And he handed them their hindquarters. Thank you very much.

Some say there will be more assassination attempts. They seem to have gotten away with the ones we're all familiar with. We don't know any more than we did the first day. The powers that be are soon to be no more, and I for one am thankful.

They're all tearful now, and is it ever sweet! Cry me a river, why don't you! Now we are wondering how our lives will change. It's a mind-boggling thing! The talk show hosts are crying real tears. Good. Maybe they're figuring out that there's no longer a market for their brand of humor, at least not in polite society. People are talking about leaving the country, and I for one hope they go.

Have they ruined everything already? Not quite. Americans are still here, and we still have our guns. We're champing at the bit and walking on air. We don't know what good news is, and the major outlets aren't going to cover anything without putting in their two cents. Their two cents has gotten old, and we're not listening any more. But they think they're still playing to a huge audience, when in fact they've run most of us off.

It's a thing now. They've let so many of the anti-Israel Arabs into Europe and the United States that they're now a factor. I don't know the stats on Arab voting here at home, but if the U. S. is to continue to be a player on the world stage, what happened in the election had to happen. They say that old Joe wanted Trump to win, that's Kamala's camp. Thank goodness we don't have to listen to that woman babble on and talk through her nose much longer. But they're trying to be gracious. They'd better be!

It's hard to wrap our minds around how things will change, but we're anxious to know. I've watched nearly all the Trump rallies. But check in with the mainstream and they're all bent out of shape about something he's said. Somehow their concerns never register when you're listening to a rally. I haven't heard all the racism they're talking about. Maybe they've beat that horse to death. We're going to find out that black & Hispanic people came out for Trump, despite all the talk.

But they're crying on the mainstream media. We don't mind. What perversion have they not promoted? Hopefully we can get back to being the nation we thought we were. We've sighed, we've cried for all the abominations they've adopted as "human rights". They don't represent anything we're familiar with, and we want to keep it that way. They can cry all they want. It's a new day in America, and we can hopefully get back to the way we were. Dominant.

The wars will start drying up. The Arabs are already wanting to come to the peace table. The war in Ukraine will be over soon, and the world will return to the way it was 40 some years ago. When Reagan beat Carter. I haven't felt this good since then. Imagine, we don't have to worry about saving the planet anymore, while China and India pollute like crazy. How are they going to save the planet when we're the only ones? We won't have to listen to these false prophets, in fact they may go the way of the Dodo bird. We can sleep at night knowing that we're in good hands.

I don't know if there has been Divine intervention or not. That bullet missing Trump's head by a fraction of an inch may be a clue. Somehow that can't have been an accident. They say he's changed, believing now that it's meant to be. America is still inhabited by good people, we've just been led down the wrong path (for so many years I've lost count). May God bless President Trump and the United States of America.
